Between 1993 and 1996, when Romney was at the helm of Bain Capital, the company's Shanghai office, Bain Co. Inc., arranged $500 million in foreign investments into China, according to Rick Yan, who was Bain and Company's vice-president at that time.

"Xinhua's report from Dec. 9, 1993, said 58 Chinese trade officials were trained in "Western ways in enterprise valuation, mergers and acquisitions and in enterprise performance improvement." Other media reports said the officials were involved in China's push to list state-owned firms on world stock markets to reap private funding.

"In opening remarks, Gao Shudong, then secretary-general of China's State Economic and Trade Commission, said the training would help China in "speeding up the structure adjustment of the state-owned enterprises." The reports identified two attending Bain & Co. consultants as Beijing-based adviser Rick Yan and Australian Greg Hutchinson."

"Ho'oponopono" is defined in the Hawaiian Dictionary as "mental cleansing: family conferences in which relationships were set right through prayer, discussion, confession, repentance, and mutual restitution and forgiveness."

Literally, ho'o is a particle used to make an actualizing verb from the following noun, as would "to" before a noun in English. Here, it creates a verb from the noun pono, which is defined as Analysis: Why did Romney bring up Big Bird and say he was cutting PBS funding with Jim Lehrer sitting as moderator? Nobody asked him about it.

Was he (subconsciously) saying to Lehrer, a PBS employee, that he didn't like the job he was doing as moderator? Or in essence, "Jim, you're fired!"

"Obama, either by temperament or strategic design, has never been the type of politician to get in the other guy's face and "let him have it." He's a cool, measured, almost unflappable leader in a modern media world that often craves quick, loud and confrontational sound bites. But whether he's hunting down Osama bin Laden or plotting the biggest health care reform in 50 years, his long game usually works. There's a reason they call him "no drama Obama."

Every time he does this in a high pressure moment, he scares the hell out of his supporters. But, somehow, when all the smoke clears, he usually wins".-Keith Boykin

Paul you live near Sacramento. Any talk on the hill about what California is going to do in the coming years as climate warms and the Sierra Snow Pack becomes a source of floods? What I mean is the infrastructure with all the Sierra dams is designed for slow melt from the snow pack. With more rain than snow, the west facing watershed is not designed for that kind of runoff, and much will have to be released down stream. Sacramento is downstream and not much elevation separates the city from the rivers. Before we build a Super Rail System, there is a more immediate problem looming.

"Another means of silently lessening the inequality of property is to exempt all from taxation below a certain point, and to tax the higher portions or property in geometrical progression as they rise. Whenever there are in any country uncultivated lands and unemployed poor, it is clear that the laws of property have been so far extended as to violate natural right. The earth is given as a common stock for man to labor and live on."

He may be a country boy from Arkansas, but he knows his arithmetic!

Bill Clinton boils down why voters should choose Obama to one word.

Chris Matthews lauds his word choice: "It reminds us of elementary school... it doesn't intimidate us. We can figure things out ourselves... so it seems so logical when Bill talks."

Watch the analysis:

«Sichin: Delar bet iya buri lani.

"A doorway shall which the gods will bore."

This tells of the well shaft dug in the Great Pyramid by Imheps much later at the instruction of the gods (the Nialians).

«Sichin: Shams itasuphu ina bit erab.

"Its vortex they will lift off, his blood they shall reener."

This says that when the well shaft was dug into the center of the vril energy vortex, its strength was weakened or its effects were totally cancelled (lifted off). It also indicates that the psychic essence of the Maniacian youth called Manusha might also have been reentered by the spiral-shaped energy vortex previously generated by the pyramid.

«Sichin: Shams hurame na lida dalt upstaba.

"At the following they will helatigly bore."

The "following" at which the well-shaft diggers would "helatigly bore" could mean either the corner of the energy vortex or the natural hollow area at the surface of the bedrock called the Girono. The following of a vortex could be viewed as similar to the calm eye of a hurricane/cyclone.

«Sichin: Qasbu na lida upstaba.

"Getting near in its midst, they will break through."

At the point when the diggers broke through to the spiral-shaped vril-energy vortex generated by the Great Pyramid, the psychic shackles of vril energy were broken and Manusha's psychic essence became free once more.

After this, we might not even need to have a convention.
